

How to withdraw your super

Important information

If any of the following apply to you, check the resources below at cbussuper.com.au/forms before you complete this form:

- you're not a permanent resident of Australia or New Zealand: Temporary residents fact sheet
- you want to transfer into a Kiwi Saver account: Transfer your super to a KiwiSaver account form
- you intend to claim a tax deduction for personal (after-tax) contributions you have made to your super account (this request must be made before you complete this form): How to claim a tax deduction on personal contributions to super form
- you currently have family law proceedings in progress: Super and divorce fact sheet

If you plan to split your super contributions with your spouse, please visit ato.gov.au to access the Superannuation contributions splitting application (NAT 15237) form.

- This form was previously named the Application for benefit form. You can complete this Super withdrawal form if you have been instructed to complete an Application for benefit form.
- To pay out or roll over benefits in Cbus Self Managed, you need to sell assets to convert them back to cash first. See fact sheets and user guides at cbussuper.com.au/cbusselfmanaged

When you can access your super

You need to meet a condition of release before you can access your super (see Step 5), but if you've got any unrestricted non-preserved super, you can access this anytime. This could include super for which you've already satisfied a condition of release (e.g. for certain employer termination payments before 1 July 2004).

Will you be taxed on your withdrawal?

There are two components of your super:

- Tax-free component – this amount is not taxed when paid.
- Taxable component – this amount may be taxed when paid, depending on your age and the amount you withdraw.

You can't choose which component is paid to you. If you withdraw an amount that's less than your full benefit, we use a formula set out by the Government to draw your payment proportionally from taxable and tax-free components.

If you've reached age 60 any retirement benefits that are paid are tax-free.

Before you leave Cbus Super

You should consider what we offer before exiting or changing funds, including:

- a range of investment options
- 24/7 insurance cover, including death and total and permanent disability (TPD)
- low fees
- access to financial advice services
- a super income stream product that provides a flexible and tax-effective income in or near retirement.

Check with your employer if you're owed any outstanding contributions and confirm they have your instructions for where you want your money to go. If we receive a payment after your account is closed, a new Cbus Super account will be opened up for you.

Consider your insurance cover

Reducing your super balance may impact any insurance cover you have with us. When you fully withdraw your super from Cbus Super, any insurance cover will stop from the date your benefit is fully paid and your account is closed. For more information, please visit cbussuper.com.au/insurance or call us on 1300 361 784.

Your payment amount may change

Have you received a benefit estimate? Please be aware the amount you're paid may be different. This can happen when:

- additional contributions have been made
- amounts are deducted (e.g. tax or insurance premiums)
- crediting rates have been adjusted, or
- earnings (positive or negative) have been applied.

Providing proof of your identity

You'll need to provide proof of your identity if you're making a cash withdrawal or rolling over to a self managed super fund (SMSF). This keeps your money safe and ensures it only goes to you.

The simplest way to provide proof of your identity is by authorising us to complete an electronic identity check using this form. Alternatively, you can use Selfie ID or Certified ID, as described below.
