

Income stream withdrawal or rollover form

Use this form to authorise us to release money from your Cbus Super Income Stream account. This includes:

1	Full or partial cash withdrawals
2	Full or partial rollovers (to another Cbus Super account or an external super fund or retirement account)

If you have a Cbus Super Retirement Scheme or Defined Benefit Scheme account, you'll need to complete a different form. Head to our forms page at cbussuper.com.au/forms.

This form can also be used to reduce your income stream balance if the value of your tax-free retirement accounts, pensions and annuities exceeds your personal transfer balance cap, which could be up to $2 million for the 2025-26 financial year. You can check your personal transfer balance cap at any time by logging in to your myGov account at my.gov.au and going to the ATO site.

If you are not an Australian or New Zealand citizen or a permanent resident of Australia, call 1300 361 784 for details on how to make a claim.

 You can request partial cash withdrawals online by logging into your account at cbussuper.com.au/login. The daily online withdrawal limit is $25,000.

Seek advice first

Withdrawing money from your income stream could have tax or Centrelink implications, so we recommend you seek help from a financial adviser before completing this form.

Our Advice team is here to help you with your advice needs and any questions you have about the process. If you need comprehensive advice, the team can refer you to an external financial adviser who meets strict professional qualification and service criteria set by Cbus Super and the Financial Advice Association Australia (FAAA).

Call our Advice team on 1300 361 784 or request a call back at cbussuper.com.au/advice.

Cbus Self Managed investment option restrictions

You can't withdraw or roll over your Cbus Self Managed investment options directly to an external super fund, retirement account or SMSF. To do this, you need to sell assets to convert them back to cash first. See fact sheets and user guides at cbussuper.com.au/cbusselfmanaged.

How much can you withdraw?

The minimum lump sum withdrawal is $1,000 unless you're withdrawing your entire account balance. Remember that making withdrawals reduces your account balance, so your money could run out sooner than you expect.

If you request a partial withdrawal/rollover, you must ensure you have enough money in your account to meet your minimum annual income payments for the current financial year.

If you're in the Fully Retired option

You can make lump sum withdrawals (commutations) at any time, subject to government requirements. You must withdraw a minimum amount in income payments every year based on your age, but there's no set maximum.

If you're in the Transition to Retirement (TTR) option

The government has set a minimum amount (4%) and maximum amount (10%) you can withdraw as income payments each year until age 65.

You cannot generally make lump sum withdrawals unless:

- you've satisfied a condition of release (e.g. you've turned age 65 and transferred to the Fully Retired option) or
- the money is used to:
 - pay out an unrestricted non-preserved benefit
 - pay a super contributions surcharge
 - pay an excess contributions tax assessment
 - effect a payment split under Family Law
 - purchase another non-commutable income stream
 - pay a benefit upon the death of the account holder
 - transfer directly to a previous or new super fund.

If it's not used for the above purposes and you don't meet any other condition of release, any lump sum withdrawals will be treated as income payments for tax purposes.

For details read the Cbus Super Transition to Retirement Income Stream Product Disclosure Statement or contact our Advice team.
